

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A flexible light array is constructed to have a flexible substrate with conducting circuits therein, a LED array formed of 5 longitudinally and transversely aligned light emitting diodes respectively electrically connected to the conducting circuits and controllable by a driving circuit to produce a video display, and a flexible plastic member packed on the flexible substrate and the LED array.

10